

I urge you to not allow these banks to make a mockery of a law that has already been passed. If we are always going to allow people a way around the law than perhaps we should take a look at what is happening to this nation.